

Ideas into Impact

2014 ANNUAL REPORT

About the Independent Institute

The Independent Institute is a non-profit, non-partisan, public-policy research and educational organization that shapes ideas into impact. The mission of the Independent Institute is to boldly advance peaceful, prosperous, and free societies grounded in a commitment to human worth and dignity.

Applying independent thinking to issues that matter, we create transformational ideas for today's most pressing social and economic challenges. The results of this work are published as books, the quarterly journal The Independent Review, and other publications and form the basis for numerous conference and media programs. Student programs also include the Challenge of Liberty Seminars and student internships conducted throughout the year.

By connecting these ideas with organizations and networks that mobilize movements, we inspire action that can unleash an era of unparalleled human flourishing at home and around the globe.

The Independent Institute receives no government funding. Instead, it draws its support from a diverse range of foundations, businesses, and individuals, and from the sale of publications. Contributions are tax-deductible under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, and Independent Institute Members receive Institute publications and special discounts to upcoming events and other programs.

This report highlights the programs of our 2014 fiscal year, made possible by generous supporters committed to making voices for liberty heard. We thank you for your help in advancing the principles of a free society and invite you to join with us in continuing our efforts.

"The Independent Institute is an extremely important program, with a superb research and publishing track record, adding enormous value to the present discussions on the role of a state in society."

—Václav Klaus, former President,
Czech Republic

"The Independent Institute upholds the finest tradition of policy analysis. In uncovering the truth, the Institute does not accept the pronouncements of government officials at face value, nor the conventional wisdom over problems."

—John R. MacArthur, President and Publisher, Harper's

A Message from Our Founder and President

Especially during election years, the trivial too often dominates, with truth hardly audible amid the noise and spin.

We at the Independent Institute, by contrast, focus on identifying those key issues that really do matter in order to shape ideas into a profound and lasting impact in our culture and communities. Seismic shifts in culture and the prospects for a better future lie not in Ivory Towers or the hallowed halls of capitols, but in the enterprise, civic virtues, and institutions of Main Street.

Our Fellows engage in discovering the underlying causes of dysfunction with such issues—stagnant growth and unemployment, inaccessible and costly healthcare, abuses of privacy rights and due process, unending wars, cronyism and corruption, smothering bureaucracies, and failing education systems, among others—and proposing innovative solutions to achieve our shared goals of individual liberty, opportunity, health, educational excellence, justice, prosperity, and peace.

As this 2014 Annual Report highlights, our non-partisan, non-politicized approach resonates widely across ideologies and populations, garnering our publications and other projects influence that spans the media spectrum, as well as among policymakers, academics and students, business and civic leaders, and the general public.

And this approach resonates especially among younger generations increasingly faced with barriers to opportunities that government follies have produced: runaway spending and debt that cripples job and business creation; galloping tuition costs and student debt; sky-rocketing healthcare premiums; abuses of personal liberties; and much more.

In this 25th Anniversary Year of the Fall of the Berlin Wall, and with pro-liberty movements spreading in America and globally, it is important to remember that, above all, ideas have consequences: pundits and political prognosticators are more often than not wrong, and one should never underestimate the power of better ideas to foster positive change that can boldly advance peaceful, prosperous, and free societies.

Through our independent thinking that there is a better way, we leverage our research, education, and communications on key social and economic issues into action through a wide range of organizations and networks. By connecting leading-edge ideas with the enterprise of Main Street, we help unleash waves of change and unparalleled human flourishing around the globe and around town.

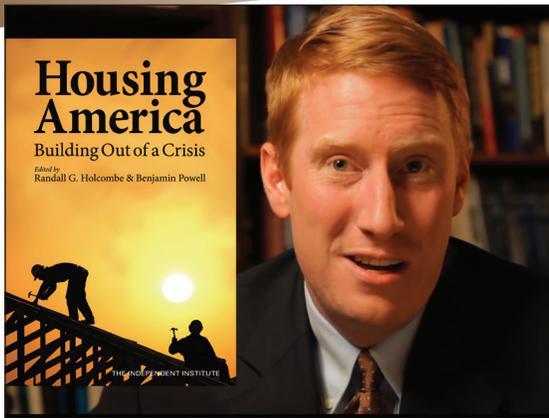

We hope you enjoy learning more about our programs and we welcome your support and involvement.

Ideas into Impact

In 2014, we celebrated a victory for millions of Californians when Governor Jerry Brown vetoed a harmful “affordable housing” bill that would have put even more pressure on the state’s already skyrocketing housing prices. Brown had earlier included the Independent Institute on a commission formed to study such policy in Oakland, for which Senior Fellow Benjamin Powell’s expert analysis showed that such measures would actually make housing much more expensive. Brown’s statement in vetoing the bill shows how the Independent Institute’s work provides the seeds for future action:

“As mayor of Oakland, I saw how difficult it can be to attract development to low and middle income communities. Requiring developers to include below-market units in their projects can exacerbate these challenges, even while not meaningfully increasing the amount of affordable housing in a given community.”

The High Cost of Economic Policy Uncertainty

America’s economic recovery has been slow by historical standards. Growth has been slow, unemployment stubbornly high, and “green shoots” have wilted fast.

If you listen to some, such as Paul Krugman of the New York Times, the reason for the anemic recovery is that governments at all levels have been “slashing spending in the face of a depressed economy.”

—Senior Fellow Lawrence J. McQuillan

Creating Opportunities for Enterprise

Runaway government spending and regulation are antithetical to economic opportunity, equality, and human flourishing. Continuing economic sluggishness, stagnant living standards, and unemployment show the folly of this course, providing new opportunities for the message of enterprise.

Our Center on Entrepreneurial Innovation, headed by Senior Fellow Lawrence J. McQuillan, spotlights the barriers bad policy erects, making the powerful case for freedom of opportunity and free enterprise.

The Terrible 10: A Century of Economic Folly

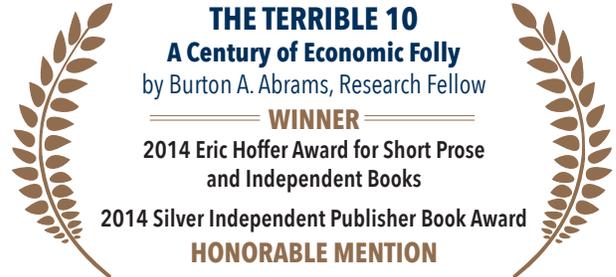

Research Fellow and MyGovCost director Burton A. Abrams leads us through the worst government policy failures of the past 100 years, providing key lessons for reform. The lessons resonated widely, covered by media outlets reaching 5.5 million readers with articles such as “Central Planning” and the “Great Recession and The New Red Menace: Deficit Spending.”

MyGovCost: Government Cost Calculator

The MyGovCost Government Cost Calculator was created as an innovative tool to illuminate the very real threat to individuals from runaway spending and debt—too often obscured by dizzying numbers and political spin. This year, we made the Calculator’s insights more widely available and easier to share than ever—especially for millennials—with the MyGovCost App for iOS devices.

Patent Trolls: Predatory Litigation and the Smothering of Innovation

Patent trolls—a.k.a. “non-practicing entities” that make money by buying, licensing, and enforcing patents rather than by selling products—are exploiting the U.S. patent system and stifling the innovation it was created to encourage. In clear, non-lawyerly language, William J. Watkins shows the human and economic costs of this legal maneuvering, and lays out the reforms needed to restore safeguards for innovators.

Research Fellow William J. Watkins, Jr. is interviewed on the Steve Malzberg Show on Newsmax TV, regarding his book Patent Trolls.

John C. Goodman is interviewed on Your World with Neil Cavuto on Fox News Channel regarding his book, Priceless: Curing the Healthcare Crisis.

Independent Institute Senior Fellow John C. Goodman was dubbed the “Father of Health Savings Accounts” by the Wall Street Journal! These accounts—HSAs for short—offer one of the few bright spots on the healthcare scene today. Goodman continues to lead the way in offering up innovative—and practical—alternative solutions for widespread access to truly affordable healthcare.

Making Healthcare Affordable

With the rollout of the Obamacare exchanges and the snafus of Healthcare.gov, this ill-begotten legislation has perversely hit those it was meant to help—creating shrinking provider networks, rising premiums, and resulting in policy cancellations. Simultaneously, stories continue to unfold about the Department of Veterans Affairs' failure to provide basic medical care promised to veterans. Independent's healthcare experts took the lead in spreading the word: it doesn't have to be this way!

Innovative Healthcare Solutions

Senior Fellow John C. Goodman, author of the Institute's landmark book, Priceless: Curing the Healthcare Crisis, along with Senior Fellows John R. Graham and Lawrence McQuillan, launched a powerful communications campaign providing topical commentaries and alternative proposals for addressing healthcare challenges! Since the release of Priceless, Dr. Goodman's national presence through Forbes.com provides real-time answers to the public's healthcare concerns as they develop. Short, topical videos released through our Independent Watch YouTube series provide engaging answers to pressing questions like "What's the Alternative to Obamacare?" to an even broader audience.

Countering Special Interests on Capitol Hill

Independent Senior Fellows John C. Goodman and John R. Graham presented expert testimony before House Committees investigating aspects of healthcare policy—providing non-partisan analysis grounded in peer-reviewed research and encouraging market-based approaches.

"It is always a privilege to participate in supporting The Independent Institute for all of its excellent work."

—Michael J. Boskin, former Chairman, President's Council of Economic Advisors; Tully Friedman Professor of Economics, Stanford University

John C. Goodman is interviewed on Lou Dobbs Tonight on Fox Business Network.

BOOK REVIEW: 'Gun Control in the Third Reich'

And at last we have the historical information we need to investigate those questions, in the form of Second Amendment lawyer Stephen P. Halbrook's "Gun Control in the Third Reich." It is the most extensive history to date of Nazi Germany's policies on firearms, drawing largely on original documents.

Strengthening Individual Liberties

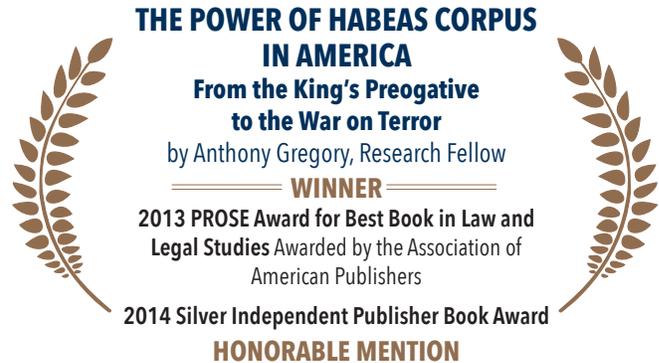

America's Founders knew that people remain free only so long as their government is kept in check, and, significantly, they ratified our Constitution only when a clear Bill of Rights was added to it. Independent Institute scholars provide expert analysis of what rights precisely those amendments were intended to enshrine—providing a powerful voice against government's creeping encroachment and a solid case for strict adherence to limits on government's power at every level.

This year's revelations of systemic spying on ordinary Americans created a wave of outrage—and a critical opportunity to direct public concern toward action for reform. We seized the moment with a special Independent Policy Forum, "Civil Liberties and Security in an Age of Terrorism," which aired repeatedly on C-SPAN's Book TV. We also capitalized on strong youth interest in this issue to inspire action among student groups, with Research Fellow Anthony Gregory speaking on related topics for student groups and releasing more exciting videos on civil liberties for our Independent Watch series.

Recarving Rushmore: Ranking the Presidents on Peace, Prosperity, and Liberty (Updated Edition)

Who were the best and worst U.S. presidents? In the past when historians and scholars have rated the presidents, their evaluations often have been based on individual charisma, activism, and service during periods of crisis.

Taking a distinctly new approach in Recarving Rushmore, Ivan Eland profiles each U.S. president from Washington to Obama on the merits of his policies and whether those strategies contributed to peace, prosperity, and liberty. This ranking system is based on how closely each president fulfilled his oath to uphold the Constitution. Contrary to the preferences of many modern conservatives and liberals, this oath was intended to limit the role of the federal government, and provides the basis for the author's contention that, of the four men given exalted representations on Mount Rushmore, only one deserves the honor.

Above: Mary Theroux, Robert Higgs, and Anthony Gregory discuss "Civil Liberties and Security in an Age of Terrorism" on C-SPAN's BookTV. Below: Ivan Eland is interviewed on Fox and Friends on Fox News Channel regarding his book, Recarving Rushmore: Ranking the Presidents on Peace, Prosperity, and Liberty.

Inspiring Free Societies Around the Globe

The need for transformational perspectives on liberty stretches across national borders. Our work combines compelling narrative with expert analysis to show that cooperation across boundaries allows free societies to thrive, while our Spanish language outreach leads the intellectual movement for freedom in Latin America.

Building on the success of his Independent Institute book, Global Crossings—the winner of 3 recent awards—Senior Fellow Alvaro Vargas Llosa offered humane insights on immigration that made millions of media impressions this year alone. Senior Fellow Benjamin Powell, co-author of our Independent Policy Report, Broken Borders: Government, Foreign-Born Workers, and the U.S. Economy, also continued his work to show that societies prosper when immigration policy rests on sound economics.

Swiss Quotas Threaten the Best of the European Project

Not even in the worst times since the bursting of the bubble has the Swiss economy been negatively affected by immigration. On the contrary, it has been one of the few countries to weather the postbubble storm successfully. What a pity that, because of a referendum won by just 20,000 votes, the best of the European project, namely the single market and the free circulation of people and goods, is now under serious threat.

The Independent Institute's summer seminars are a wonderful opportunity for students interested in economics and the science of liberty to interact with high-quality passionate faculty members and like minded students.

—Benjamin Powell, Director, Free Market Institute, Texas Tech University

It is always an immense pleasure to see the twinkle in the eyes of the seminar students as they finally—for the first time in their young lives—'get' why liberty matters and free markets work. I've seen it happen many times at the Institute's seminars, and it is inevitably followed by a passion and even urgency to bring about a freer society.

Growing Tomorrow's Leaders

Inspiring young minds to shape a brighter future for liberty, our 2014 Student Programs were our most successful ever. Thanks to the support of our donors, our Challenge of Liberty Summer Seminars included students from 22 states, 7 countries, and 54 universities and high schools pursuing 24 majors.

Our intensive weeklong Summer Seminars offer a rich experience of over 20 advanced courses, daily faculty discussion panels, and collegial interaction with faculty and other students, equipping young minds to become powerful activists for free societies throughout their careers.

Our transformational Internships program engaged twelve interns across all departments. Independent Institute interns take integral roles on our team and ownership of important projects, lending their energy and excitement to furthering the principles and practice of liberty, enterprise, and innovative, market-based solutions to next-generation challenges.

Alumni of Independent Institute student programs are prepared to lead in their respective fields—policy, academia, business, media, or other—armed with a rich understanding and appreciation of the conditions critical to entrepreneurship and innovation.

"As a politics undergraduate coming from a post-communist country, I really appreciated the insights into free-market ideas that the lecturers provide us. The speakers were able to present complex problems in a very engaging manner and facilitate great discussions."

Independent Periodicals

The Independent Review and Independent Policy Reports present innovative perspectives on topical issues. Providing the rigor of peer-reviewed analysis and solutions, while remaining highly accessible to the lay person, these publications are valued additions to today's top discussions!

The Independent Review

This acclaimed interdisciplinary journal features pioneering insights from both young and established scholars. Provocative, lucid, and engaging, The Independent Review is a valued resource for original thought on issues of current concern—with more than 30,000 copies of articles downloaded each month.

"The Independent Review combines scholarly excellence with literary elegance to examine critically the most pressing of public issues, past, present and future. In so doing, the journal always delights and challenges the reader."

—Kevin Starr, State Librarian Emeritus of California

Independent Policy Reports

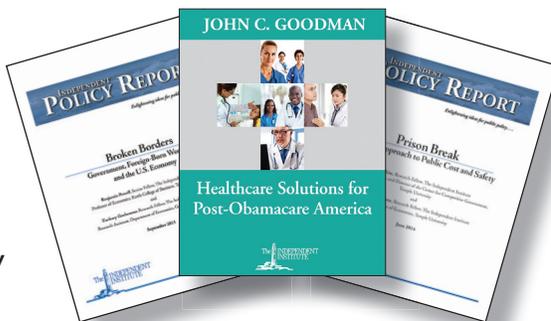

Independent Policy Reports also provide piercing, peer-reviewed analyses of critical policy issues.

Broken Borders: Government, Foreign-Born Workers, and the U.S. Economy

This illuminating report from Senior Fellow Benjamin Powell and Research Fellow Zachary Gochenour demonstrates that U.S. government interference distorts labor markets, driving the illegal immigration system we confront today. The authors argue that, ultimately, an immigration market free from government limitations and interference would be the most efficient and equitable solution.

Prison Break: A New Approach to Public Cost and Safety

In this report, Simon Hakim and Erwin A. Blackstone, Professors of Economics at Temple University, demonstrate not only that public and private competition and cooperation in the provision of prison services has worked in terms of cost savings and performance measures, but that such measures could be extended and improved.

The Independent

The quarterly newsletter of the Independent Institute, The Independent, informs a broad audience about current and future Independent Institute research and publications, along with events, media and student programs, and more. Currently in its 24th volume, this powerful educational outreach tool reached 25,000 readers this year!

Investors in a Free Society

Our work in moving ideas to impact is made possible entirely by individuals and foundations committed to furthering individual choice, increasing opportunity, and unleashing the power of enterprise. We are honored by the nearly 700 donors who partnered with us in advancing these principles in 2014, each deserving special recognition as defenders of free societies. In addition, some assumed exceptional roles in support of liberty, listed here in thanks for their generosity:

The Lighthouse Logo

The Independent Institute's logo is inspired by the renowned 1974 essay, "The Lighthouse in Economics," by Nobel Prize-winning economist Ronald H. Coase (available in his book, The Firm, the Market and the Law). Until that time, conventional wisdom from John Stuart Mill to Paul Samuelson had claimed that the lighthouse was the quintessential "public good," which allegedly could be supplied only by government due to the inherent free-riding of those who could not be charged for the services provided. Coase showed, however, that in Britain, "contrary to the belief of many economists, a lighthouse service can be provided by private enterprise

The lighthouses were built, operated, financed, and owned by private individuals, who could sell a lighthouse or dispose of it by bequest. The role of the government was limited to the establishment and enforcement of property rights in the lighthouse." Only later did the British government consolidate all lighthouse services under its own monopoly in order to eliminate competition and directly reap the financial benefits developed by private entrepreneurs.

In addition to exposing the fallacies of a favorite public-goods rationalization, Coase rescued the lighthouse as a symbol of entrepreneurship, courage, enlightenment, and independence.
