Investigates the concepts of political ecology and political entrepreneurship in environmental policy and presents the case that major US environmental laws are more about opportunism and ideology than good management and environmental improvement. Discusses politics, ecology, and entrepreneurship; political ecology; environmental political entrepreneurship; the politics of nature; the Clean Air Act; the National Environmental Policy Act; the Clean Water Act; the Endangered Species Act; the Wilderness Act; and renewable energy legislation. Simmons is Senior Fellow at the Independent Institute, Professor of Economics, and Director of the Institute of Political Economy in the Jon M. Huntsman School of Business at Utah State University. Yonk is Research Fellow at the Independent Institute, Research Director for the Institute of Political Economy in the Department of Economics, and Research Assistant Professor of Economics at Utah State University. Sim is Director of the Reliable Energy Education Network. Index.
